FALL CHANGES

Programs Launched; 43 Profs Appointed

Appointment of 43 new members to the faculty was announced last week by President J. Paul Leonard. Included are two division heads. Glen Kendall will be chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology as well as director of summer session. A. Eason Monroe will be chairman of the Division of Language Arts. Both hold the rank of professor.

PROFESSORS APPOINTED

Other new appointees are: Walmar Johansen, professor of art; Lavonne Hannah, associate professor of education; Charles Cranford, assistant professor of recreation; Louis Wasserman, assistant professor of humanities; Arch D. Lang and Robert S. Stewart, assistant professors of education; Gertrude Luehning, assistant professor of home economics; Arthur Edwards, assistant professor of social science (part time); John S. Hensill, assistant professor of biological science; Burr G. Burbank, assistant professor of physical science; Karl Kasten, assistant professor of art;

William Ward, assistant professor of music; Clarence Miller and Muriel L. Sweeney, assistant professors of speech and drama; Daniel L. Adler, assistant professor of psychology; Dorothy Riggs, assistant professor of speech; Constance McCullough, assistant professor of education; Ethel Mealey, assistant professor of health education;

INSTRUCTORS NAMED

Antoinette Wilson and Eleanor Bushnell, instructors in language arts; Katherine D. Beck, Margaret L. La Grille, Doris M. Brown and Ruth B. Hadley, instructors in training school; Seymour Locke, Edwin C. Kruth and Flavis Richards, instructors in music; Ellyer C. Stowell, instructor in science; William W. Harkness and Dorothy A. Brett, instructors in physical education; Ernest O. Lombardi, instructor in foreign languages; Julio Francis-Tutti, instructor in speech; Alvin J. Gordon, lecturer in visual arts (part time); Victor York, assistant in industrial arts; Scott O'Neal, assistant in music and Harold Juster, assistant (part time) in language arts. Elly Wilbert will be instructor in languages, part time.

JOBS STILL OPEN

Former part-time members who will now teach full time are George Stenberg and Carl T. Running, assistant professors of social science; Guido de Ghetaldi, instructor in physical education; and Eleanor Wakefield, assistant professor of physical education.

Approximately 13 jobs are still open, according to Leonard, including five for general curricula, five in the special education program and three in the guidance center. A new director of the guidance center has not been appointed.

Gibson Tackles Public Relations

George Gibson, associate professor of history and humanities, has been appointed, on a half-time basis, public relations director of the college. Every dealing with the press or any other public medium made by the college and its staff must go through and be approved by Gibson, it was stated by President J. Paul Leonard this week.

Leonard added that in time an attempt will be made to co-ordinate all publicity measures taken by the Associated Students under Gibson. He said that Gibson has already released data on the football team to the city press.

Student publications will not be affected by Gibson's appointment and will continue to be organs of the Associated Students under the direction of the Division of Language Arts.

San Francisco State College has been selected as the site for a World School of Business to be set up in conjunction with the projected World Trade Center in San Francisco. Along with two other new programs, recreational leadership and special education, being opened at the college this year, this greatly enlarges the number of specialized fields offered here.

UNDER SOCIAL SCIENCE

At present, according to President J. Paul Leonard, the World Business School will be under the Division of Social Science, but changes will be made later when a full five-year program is set up. Leonard is now working out this program with a committee of business men in the city and hopes eventually to have young people selected from all the important countries of the world studying here to enter world business.

A second new program, already under way, is that of recreational leadership under the direction of Charles Cranford, until recently assistant recreation commissioner of Westchester County, New York. The program will be a part of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and at present it includes courses in group leadership, camp leadership, recreational activities for special groups and other related classes.

FIRST TIME

The third program will be the training of teachers and workers for the blind, deaf, mentally retarded and cerebral palsied. It is expected to begin in February and will be the only complete program of its kind in California. This program was allocated to the college by the State Department of Education.

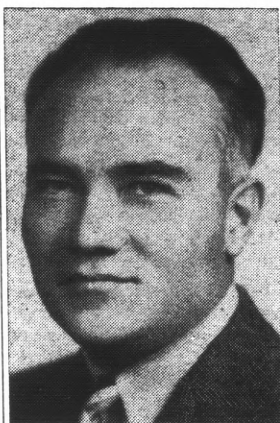

O'Leary Explains Role Of Student Corporation

The student body government of State represents the student. Originally this corporation, the Associated Students of San Francisco State College, was formed as a voice of the student in all spheres of his activities so that the student could make his views known. Formed as the voice of the student, it can only function as his voice if the student takes a part in it.

One of the basic policies of this government will be an attempt to not only stimulate activities within and outside the student body itself, but also to recognize the needs and the rights of all State students in their college life.

Your student body government recognizes its responsibility to see that you have an adequate and happy college experience. We can accomplish this only if the students actively participate in its fulfillment.

This is your government. You support and strengthen it.
VIN O'LEARY,
Student Body President.

President of the College

Evening Education Plan Inaugurated

State's new In-Service Education Division, directed by William Cowan, will be inaugurated this fall, replacing the former Extension Division. Designed to meet more adequately the needs of professional and non-professional groups, it will offer classes on the campus and at various locations in or around the Bay Area.

The division's services are available to lay groups as well as school systems. Special workshops or study groups may be established. A minimum of 25 students is necessary to begin a course. Classes usually last two hours once a week. Ordinarily, they carry two units of credit. They are scheduled for late afternoons, evenings or on Saturdays.

Instructors from the faculties of State, other educational institutions and experts from the field conduct classes.

The first of the division's courses, Physical Science 1: Man and His Physical World, began September 8 and meets every Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. in Anderson 207, instructed by Maurice Amsten.

Other classes to begin soon include work in psychology, education, commerce, physical education and sociology.

Off-campus summer sessions, such as those completed at Santa Rosa and Modesto during summer, 1947, come under the jurisdiction of the division.

Further information may be obtained from Cowan, Room 204A, College Hall.

Asilomar Confab Dates Announced

Members of the faculty will go to Asilomar for a conference again this year at which curricula and the results of the student needs tests will be discussed, President J. Paul Leonard said last week.

The conference will begin at noon Friday, November 7, and will terminate Monday noon, November 10. The college will close Thursday evening and will remain closed until Wednesday morning, November 12. Armistice Day, November 11, is an official holiday.

Roumasset Heads High Student Post

Charles K. Roumasset replaced L. R. Frembling as administrator of student affairs this summer. Roumasset comes from the Southern California Office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Los Angeles, where he was district director and correlator of all bureau programs of employment, wage, price and construction statistics in the region. Prior to that he was regional price economist of the San Francisco office of BLS, where he directed all activities of the prices and cost of living branch in the five western states.

COLLEGE HISTORY

Roumasset graduated from San Jose State College in 1933, receiving an A.B. in economics. He then did graduate study at the University of California in economics, history and education and received a general secondary credential in 1935.

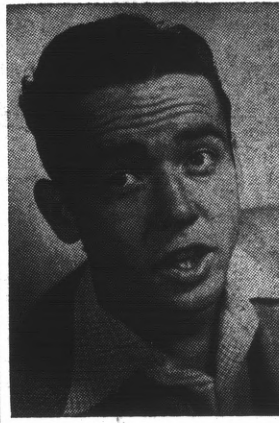

From 1938 to 1940 he worked with the FBI and went to the BLS in August, 1940. With the BLS he worked up through the job classifications from statistical clerk, junior economist, regional food economist and regional price economist until he became the head of the regional office at Los Angeles.

WILL TEACH CLASS

With the reduction in appropriations made by the recent Congress, several activities of the BLS were curtailed, and Roumasset was to be sent back to Washington, D. C. He preferred to remain on the coast and quit government service. He was hired to take Frembling's place this summer by student members of the Board of Directors. He is tentatively scheduled to teach one class of business arithmetic this semester.

He is married and has two children. Frembling will head the commerce department at Marin Junior College.

The position of Administrator of Student Affairs was established after a job analysis was made by John Cornhelsen.

VIN O'LEARY
Student Body President

Frosh Given Two Day Orientation

An orientation program for new students will be held on campus today and tomorrow by the college administration and Associated Students.

In the mornings and afternoons, new-comers will assemble in the Baptist Church for orientation tests and lectures. Principal speakers will be President J. Paul Leonard, Miss Mary A. Ward, dean of women, and John Cornhelsen, Jr., dean of men.

Under the testing program, directed by Cornhelsen, new-comers will take the reading inventory test and from their scores will be advised on study habits and improvement of reading.

At noon an orientation committee of the Associated Students, headed by Milt Reiterman, will take over serving new students box lunches at cost and free cokes.

There will be a free rally and noon hour dance with juke box music in the gym. Ken Pasquale, activities commissioner, is in charge of the rally and program.

Members of Reiterman's committee will escort the freshmen from the church to the campus on a campus tour.

President Extends Greeting

To all new and returning students we extend a hearty welcome to San Francisco State—THE FRIENDLY SCHOOL. The year of 1947-1948 will be our best year so far. We have opened new programs in business and commerce, in recreational leadership, and in training for working with blind, deaf, mentally retarded and cerebral palsied children. We have secured nearly 35 new faculty members, carefully selected for their ability and training. We are building six more new steel huts on the new campus, and we have secured new and finer equipment. We are off to a good start.

The Associated Student Body has great plans for sports, drama, music, fun and frolic, their newspaper and year book, student co-ops, clubs and student government. WITHOUT FAIL, EVERY STUDENT AT SAN FRANCISCO STATE SHOULD BE A MEMBER and should get his student body card at once. The cost is low; the rewards are high. If you believe in your college, make it better by supporting student activities.

The big reason you came is to acquire an education. Our faculty will work hard to help you, but the real responsibility is yours. You need it; you want it; it is here; but it is not a gift and you cannot buy it. The only way to get an education is to work for it. Best of success to you all.

J. PAUL LEONARD,
President of the College.

O'Leary, Shepherd Spark Vast Drive For 2000 Members

A campaign to persuade all State students to become members of Associated Students corporation begins next week. Letters, citing advantages of student body membership, will be sent to returning students. On campus, there will be signs, posters and broadcasts. The loudspeaker system, implemented by student body purchase of war surplus equipment, will carry the drive to the cafeteria, gym and playgrounds.

O'Leary, the board of directors and John Shepherd, treasurer, are conducting the campaign.

GOAL 2000

Their goal, two thousand student body members.

The Veterans Administration will not pay student body fees for veterans in training under Public Law 346 this semester.

Student body cards of veterans in training under Public Law 16, however, will be paid by the VA. Formerly priced at $10, cards go on sale today at $8 each, accompanied by the following benefits:

Card holders may purchase cafeteria script books which give a 10 per cent discount and present an estimated saving of $6.75 for each student who eats in the cafeteria.

HEALTH SERVICE FREE

Free Health Center card, costing non-student body members $5, affords x-ray and medicines needed for emergency treatment of injuries incurred in college activities. Overnight hospitalization for observation of such an injury, if indicated. Temporary dental care involving use of materials of temporary fillings and packs.

Free post office box which costs non-members $0 cents.

Reduction of $1 on the yearbook, The Franciscan.

Free weekly copy of the Golden Gater, subscription rate of which to non-student body members is $1.25 per semester.

STUDENT PARTICIPATION

Participation in athletic events, such as intercollegiate football and basketball games, admittance to rallies, membership in campus clubs, organizations and holding of editorial positions on all publications will not be granted non-student body members.

Typewriters in the publications office, when available, may be used by student body members for book reports and term papers.

Reduced rates will be given student body members to all dances, drama productions, athletic contests and all events which require an admittance fee.

Surplus Annuals Hit Stands Today

Copies of two of State's publications, last year's Inklings and the Franciscan, will be on sale during registration week.

Inklings is a literary magazine composed of stories, poems and plays written by State students and will cost 15 cents with student body cards and 25 cents without.

The Franciscan, college yearbook, is a pictorial review of State's social, academic and sport life for the fall and spring terms of 1946-47. The annuals will sell for $3 for student body card holders and $4 for students without cards.

Students who have paid for their Franciscans should pick them up during this week at the booths set up in the registration lines.

These publications are also available at the student body office, Hut 4.

Quartararo to Star in Current S. F. Opera Season

Florence Quartararo, State alumna, making her debut with the S.F. Opera Company, will appear in "Don Giovanni" Friday night and in "Marriage of Figaro" at the matinee October 5. The young soprano has been with the Met as a stand-in for the last few years.

Register to Vote!

Last day for registration for the municipal elections in November is September 25. All students of voting age are urged to register.

Registration Procedure Listed Here

Miss Florence Vance announced this week that two days have been set aside for payment of fees and formal registration of a restricted enrollment of 2850. Students registered at the college last semester should complete these requirements Thursday, September 18. New students and re-entrants follow on Friday, September 19. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 12 and 1-4 p.m.

Procedures for NON-VETS are as follows:

1. Report to Room 207, Anderson Hall, located at the corner of Haight and Buchanan Streets. These registration books will be distributed to be filled out.
2. Proceed to the gym across the lawn from Anderson Hall to pay fees and pick up class cards.

3. Even though photographed previously, it is important that all students have their pictures taken in Hut 1. This is requested by the registrar, the administration and the student body to facilitate future references, recognition, publications and other purposes. The student body will provide a photographer for 52 cents each person.

Those VETERANS under Public Laws 346, 16 and the State bill proceed as follows:

1. Report to Room 207, Anderson Hall, to fill out registration books.
2. Pick up Forms 7-52 in Room 125, Anderson Hall.
3. Turn in Forms 7-52, complete with "C" (claims) number at Hut 2. There class cards and clearance will be given. This takes the place of paying fees. Vets under P. L. 16 who are authorized by the Veterans Administration to attend school will be cleared by the VA training officer, Jack L. Mengel.

Have pictures taken in Hut 1. Veterans who have been in school previously and who have not attended any other institution under the G. I. Bill since they last interrupted training here at State will complete Form 7-52.

Those who have attended another school under the G. I. Bill will need supplemental letters of eligibility besides a completed Form 7-52. Those who have applied for supplementals which have not yet been received must pay their own bills. Their money will be refunded when the letters of eligibility are received by the college.

Vets who never before have attended school under the G. I. Bill will need a letter of eligibility, which will be kept on file at the VA.

Forms 7-52 will not be accepted unless the "C" (claims) number is complete.

Vets who have paid their own school bills before will need letters of eligibility if they wish to accept the benefits of the G. I. Bill.

Students classified under a state compensation bill may see the state representative. He and Mengel will be available for information in Hut 3 on Thursday and Friday.

EDITORIALS

POLICY ANNOUNCED

The Golden Gater begins the year with a definite editorial policy—a policy not devised solely by the editor nor any specific member of the staff, the Associated Students or the Administration. Rather, the policy is handed down from the Board of Publications which endeavors to find out what the students think and then reflects that student opinion in the student publications. The editor of the Gater is a member of that board.

At all times, however, we will be governed by the principles of good journalism and journalistic ethics. We are guided by our instructors—members of the Division of Language Arts.

The Gater, as well as other student publications, is financed by the Associated Students.

We shall try to build the prestige of the Associated Students by giving them complete publicity. We shall back the present student government as long as we feel it is serving in the best interests of ALL the students.

We will not write trite editorials urging students to show school spirit. Instead, we will endeavor to engender school spirit by giving complete and accurate coverage of all college activities.

Our aims, above all, will be accuracy and objectivity. We have already formed an editorial board which will, on the advisement of the publications board on student opinion, decide what editorials will be written, what stand should be taken and which will send competent reporters out to get ALL the facts on important issues.

The editorial board will plan in advance its editorial position. We have already received hundreds of requests for complete information on student enterprises, campus issues and questions of the day. We will endeavor to fulfill these student requests.

At all times we will try to raise the prestige and eminence of the college as a whole.

In answer to another student request we will not confine ourselves to strictly campus issues but will attempt to give light to city, national and international affairs which affect everybody.

'New Campus' Explained

Freshmen entering the college are apt to hear many excuses for the physical appearance and condition of the college itself. They will hear on all sides, "Well, it'll be all right when we get to the new campus." Or they will hear many statements of intentions prefixed by the phrase, "When we get to the new campus..."

Well, a new campus for San Francisco State College has been a dream for a long time—one shared by thousands of people. It has been reported that when former president Alexander Roberts came in 1928, he hopefully declared that S. F. State was next in line for a new site.

The editors of the 1934 yearbook were quite optimistic of moving, as evidenced by their many statements about their "new campus."

However, the dream hardly approached reality until 1939, when the Legislature, on the urging of former state senator John F. Shelley of San Francisco, authorized the purchase of 40 acres at Lake Merced. Later they appropriated enough money to begin the construction of new college buildings. The war put a stop to that construction, and little was done until President J. Paul Leonard came in 1945 to take over the presidency.

The following spring the Legislature recognized the significance of the issue and came through with an appropriation for the building fund.

A year ago, however, after careful study of the increased birth rate and the increased population of San Francisco, Leonard and state officials realized that 40 acres would not be sufficient for a college which would have an estimated enrollment of 6,000 students in 1960. (Nineteen of the 40 acres would be occupied by ditches and roads.) To save the cost of expansion at some future date (San Jose State recently had to purchase four expensive city blocks to satisfy its expansion) a bill was introduced in the Legislature to purchase an additional 56 acres.

The additional land, however, is owned by real estate interests who suddenly claimed they were going to build a $10,000,000 housing unit on it. (Homes in the project, it has been said, would sell for $10,000 and up.) When the bill was introduced in the Legislature these real estate interests appealed to the city, and the Board of Supervisors came forth with a resolution requesting the Legislature to turn down the pending bill. To protest this action, 1500 State students marched on the City Hall to urge Mayor Roger Lapham not to sign the resolution. Roger dodged.

The Legislature, meanwhile, on the urging of ALL of San Francisco's legislators, decided to investigate. A committee toured the present campus and declared the conditions "... appalling... shocking... revolting..."

The assembly then passed a bill appropriating more than $500,000 to buy the land and along with it a bill which included $3,000,000 to go into the building fund. The land bill met opposition in the Senate Finance Committee from senators who had

SUMMER JAUNT

Vets Travel, Study In Exotic Lands

By CHUCK ELKIND

One of the more colorful excursions embarked upon this summer was the penetration "south of the border," by the journalism instructor, Kenneth E. Young. He and his frau hopped a plane and skimmed over the rugged Mexican mountains, landing at Mexico City. The objective was to incorporate a vacation, wanderlust and summer session.

The session at the University of Mexico was sponsored by the GI Bill. That vets can attend schools on any part of the globe is one of the lesser known facts of the Bill.

FOREIGN SCHOOLS

The ex-GI's in Mexico City, however, are fully cognizant of this benefit. So it isn't uncommon to overhear clusters of students constantly talking about schools in foreign lands. Some have already arranged to move to schools in Dublin, Ireland; Afghanistan, Sweden and China.

There does have to be a plausible reason for attending a foreign school. Studying Pan-American problems and learning the language were valid for entrance into Mexican schools. However, one vet was rejected because the VA wouldn't approve his application to enroll in the national bullfighting school!

FIRST ENGLISH TESTS

Problems encountered by the schools included sweating out two professors who were detained at the border until discrepancies in their working papers were altered. This session also marked the first time many of the classes used books. English texts just haven't been accessible to the schools until this year.

Language barriers are usually overcome with conversations often culminating in free exchange of hand signals. Idioms one culls from tamale parlor menus and the lyrics of Latin American tunes heard on juke boxes prove insufficient to cope with the strange tongue.

OUTSTANDING TOURS

Sight seeing is encouraged and tours are made to the famous pyramids, floating gardens of Xochimilco, and the volcano at Paricutin. The latter junket is a rigorous affair, being traversed consecutively by car, taxi and finally by horse.

Acapulco was prominent for its beautiful beach and an itinerant and gaudily clad contingent from Hollywood. They were on hand to film Tarzan, forsaking his usual quadruped friends for fairer game, in an epic titled "Tarzan and the Mermaids."

Diego Rivera was seen at work on the murals of a very swank downtown hotel. One of the fifteen living ex-presidents of the Mexican government addressed the student body.

SINGING COMMERCIALS

If one has the intent to escape from the tentacles of American high pressure advertising, Mexico isn't the place of refuge. The singing commercials hound you from the Mexican loudspeakers. They are readily identifiable, though they are in a foreign language.

The Youngs have returned and speak fondly of their excursion. However, they warmly accept the culinary change from the highly spiced Mexican cuisine. Besides, frijoles (beans) at every meal do get a bit monotonous!

(Ed. Note: The Gater was unable to acquire data last week on other interesting vacations, but will print news of other outstanding jaunts in future editions.)

Theatre Sponors Drama Activities

High standards in college dramatics are promoted by the College Theatre. This group composed of future thespians advance workshop plays, major productions and other theatrical entertainments.

These endeavors are subsidized by the Associated Students. J. Fenton McKenna, associate professor of speech and drama, and Raymond Doyle, radio instructor, are co-sponsors of the group.

Among the plays produced last year were: "The Male Animal," an Elliott Nugent comedy; "The Night of January 16th"; "Room Service"; and "Twelfth Night," a Shakespearean comedy. Other activities include presentation of many plays for noon assemblies and radio broadcasts by the radio division.

WALTER R. HACKER

Hacker Elected Geography Head

Walter R. Hacker, associate professor of geography and geology, was elected president of the California Council of Geography Teachers last summer. Hacker, who received his Ph.D. from the University of Vienna in 1931, has taught geography, geology, anthropology, ethnology and related fields in Europe, at the University of Nanking and the University of California.

Hacker was also consultant to the armed forces during the war and aided in map making for the planned invasion of China.

HISTORY

College Nears 50th Anniversary

San Francisco State College opened its doors 48 years ago as a normal school. In 1901 the first class graduated, after two years of study, with teaching credentials.

Under the guidance of Dr. Frederic Burk, the institution became an important center for the training of elementary teachers and attracted wide recognition for its experimental work and educational leadership. In 1921 the course was raised to three years and by 1930 to four years.

In 1935 the title of State Teachers College was officially changed to State College. Thus through legal enactment and authority of the State Board of Education, the state colleges were given the standing of liberal arts institutions with a consequent enlargement in various fields of instruction.

The most recent expansion in teacher training has followed the action of the State Legislature in 1945 whereby the state colleges are enabled to grant general credentials for teaching in the secondary schools.

Following this act, San Francisco State applied for accreditation and was granted authority to bestow the general secondary credential in the fields of art, commerce, music, physical education, English, social science and natural science.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the college, the editor of the Gater last week suggested to the Board of Publications that an anniversary issue of the college yearbook, the Franciscan, be published in 1949, which would not only furnish graphic highlights of the period of growth of the college, but also feature a '49er motif in commemoration of the anniversary of the gold rush.

Singers Sign Up For a Cappella

Students who wish to join State's a Cappella Choir are advised to enroll in Music 24, Introduction to the a Cappella Choir, one unit, according to Roy Freeburg, director.

There are no formal tryouts for the choir. Music 24 acts as a screening process for the group, as well as an introductory course for literature and activities of the organization.

Seven Division Plan Plays Key Role In Administration

For purposes of organization and administration, the college and its curricula is organized into seven divisions.

The seven division plan was inaugurated by President J. Paul Leonard and is now in its second year of operation.

The Division of Creative Arts is headed by William E. Knuth. In it are included art, industrial art, instrumental and vocal music, music education, speech, drama and radio. Students may center their work around the drama workshop, the composers workshop or the radio studio.

Education, psychology and home economics compose the Division of Education. Its chairman is Glenn Kendall. This section caters to the interests of those preparing for the Kindergarten-Primary, General Elementary, General and Special Secondary, and Nursery School credentials.

Supervising the Division of Health, Physical Education Recreation is David J. Cox. Health, physical education for men and women, as well as recreation and group leadership, are under his jurisdiction.

The Division of Humanities consists of English literature, foreign languages, humanities and philosophy. Elias T. Arnesen is acting chairman. The creative arts workshop or the humanities workshop may serve as the center of students' programs.

English composition, journalism, speech and writing are incorporated under the Division of Language Arts. Courses under this heading encourage creative writing, reporting, speech education and speech correction. A. Eason Monroe is the chairman of this group.

The Division of Natural Sciences concerns biological sciences, physical sciences and mathematics. These are of interest to pre-professional and professional curricula students. The chairmanship is vacant at present.

Anthropology, commerce, economics, geography, government, history and sociology are grouped together in the Division of Social Science. Inter-group relations, work in social welfare and special commercial fields fall into this category. Acting-chairman is Floyd A. Cave.

Assisting President Leonard are five deans. Vice-president and Dean of General Education is P. F. Valentine. His responsibilities include planning schedules, curricula and courses for general education plus those of a non-professional nature.

Dean of Professional Studies, John H. Butler, directs the planning of all curricula, courses and schedules for professional education and for the In-Service Education Division, formerly the Extension Division.

Walter J. Homan, Dean of Student Personnel and Guidance, has under his direction the offices of the registrar, deans of men and women, counseling and placement. He is responsible for supervising work in guidance and counseling, testing, admission and placement. Dean of Women, Mary A. Ward, serves the needs of women students by offering assistance concerning housing, positions, scholastic or personal adjustments. Dean of Men, John H. Cornelsen, besides his regular duties as adviser to men students, has charge of the freshman entrance examinations. Men should feel free to consult him regarding information or guidance in individual and study difficulties.

Teachers in training are under the supervision of Sherman L. Brown, Director of Practice Teaching. Grace Carter Leatherbury is principal of the training school on State's campus. Instructors there are practice teachers.

William Cowan heads the new In-Service Education Division. Its services are available to lay groups as well as school systems.

Registrar Florence Vance is in charge of students' personal and scholastic records. Her office staff compiles the nine-week mid-term and final reports. Programs of students not under special counselors must be approved every semester by general counselors Eva C. Hodgson and Marcia Peterson.

Ruth Fleming is Librarian and head of the library staff. The campus boasts of three libraries. Reserve books are kept in Room 210, College Hall.

Doctors Evelyn Ballard, Martin W. Debenham and Jesse J. Iverson are the three physicians maintained on the campus. A doctor and a nurse are available all hours of the day in the Health Center, located in Anderson Hall.

Consumer Study Highlights Session

One of the major events of the summer program of the college was the Consumer Conference, held in Frederic Burk School August 11-16.

Sponsored by the college, the undertaking was supported and aided by the Better Business Bureau and downtown business agencies. It was highly publicized throughout the Bay Area by newspapers and radio stations.

Hugh C. Baker, director of summer session, L. R. Frembling and Mrs. Ruth Walker, group leaders at the conference, spoke over local radio stations, giving the purposes and outlines of the conference.

Fred T. Wilhelms, associate director of the Consumer Education Study of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, directed the conference, which was the first of its kind to be given in San Francisco.

Subject matter of the conference fell into four major groups: Buy-manship, financial management, business-like procedure and social economics for the consumer.

Many housewives, teachers and students attended.

One and two units were awarded students who did special work and who attended all meetings. Those attending were given advice in budgeting, purchasing, borrowing, the buying and building of homes and many phases of consumer economics.

Chorus Recruits For 'Messiah'

State's festival chorus will present Handel's "The Messiah" this December with full symphony orchestra and prominent campus soloists.

For the first time, chorus membership is thrown open to all students without prerequisite. Four faculty members will work in part practice, and the combined rehearsals will be directed by Sterling Wheelwright.

Rehearsals will be held at 12:15 p.m. every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at John Muir Auditorium, a short walk from the campus. Students are invited to register in advance for Music 14 and may earn a half unit credit as well.

Various Functions Feature Student Governing System

Like any elected group, the board of directors of the corporation, the Associated Students of San Francisco State College, has a definite purpose and structure.

Each year members of Associated Students elect a president, vice-president, secretary, activities commissioner, treasurer and seven members-at-large.

In addition to these students the Board of Directors is comprised of four faculty members: John Cornelsen, Jr., dean of men; Miss Mary A. Ward, dean of women, and George E. Outland.

MEETINGS OPEN

Business of the board is conducted at open meetings each Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Activities Room, College Hall, or the Student Lounge, Hut 5. Here, such measures as cost of student body cards, management of the photographic dark room, scheduling of relief drives and institution of new policies are weighed and discussed.

The four major branches of the board of directors are the offices of activities commissioner, vice-president, treasurer and secretary. From this information arises the pattern of activities specified in the constitution of Associated Students corporation.

Responsible to Activities Commissioner Ken Pasqualetti is the activities council and its subsidiary, the rally committee.

Audrey Scontriano, vice-president, is in charge of the welfare board.

Fifty Cent P. O. Fee Announced

The P. O. Boxes have been moved from Anderson Hall to the basement of College Hall and are now under control of the Associated Students with Phil Ryan, member of the student board of directors, in charge.

Because of increased costs the fee is raised to 50 cents. The boxes are free, however, to student body card holders.

Ryan announced that 1000 more boxes have been ordered and will arrive soon.

The P. O. box committee announced that the number of the box will be the same as that of the student body card.

STATE

P. E. Program Ranks High In Nation

San Francisco State College draws some of the nation's outstanding athletes from every field of endeavor, yet because of intercollegiate eligibility rules is unable to use them. In the past athletes such as All-American basketball Jim Pollard, footballers Jess Freitas, Vic Ramus and John Kuzman, and woman swimmer Joyce McRae have come to State to earn secondary teaching credentials after they have competed and made names for themselves in various universities.

Why do they choose State for their graduate work?

The answer, according to Dean David Cox, director of State's athletic program, is that this college ranks second only to Columbia University of New York for an all-round physical education program.

MANY COACHES CAVORT

Last year's athletic program found 15 different coaches showing their wares. Cox stated that no less than 500 athletes participate in intercollegiate sports annually, and approximately 90 per cent of the men students take part in the intramural programs.

Last year State offered intramural as well as intercollegiate competition in every sport. Cox added that each activity is treated on equal terms with no sport rated as minor.

State's lineup of coaches reads something like this: Head football coach, Dick Boyle; assistants, Ray Kaufman and Guido DeGhetaldi; soccer, Jerry Kenney; basketball and tennis, Dan Farmer; jayvee basketball, Allan Bell; wrestling, Bert Gustafson; boxing, Lee Alderman; volleyball, Jim Malloy; baseball and swimming, Harold Harden; fencing, Thelwall Proctor. Boyle is also golf coach, and DeGhetaldi is director of intramural activities.

DOUBTFUL RETURNEES

Unable to return this fall is George Poppin, assistant line coach for the Gators last year. Poppin is now tutoring George Washington High School's grid team.

Manny Morena, assistant soccer mentor of last fall's aggregation, may not be back either. Others who are doubtful returnees are Jim Witt, mentor of freshman basketball, and Jess Freitas, coach of last spring's jayvee baseball squad.

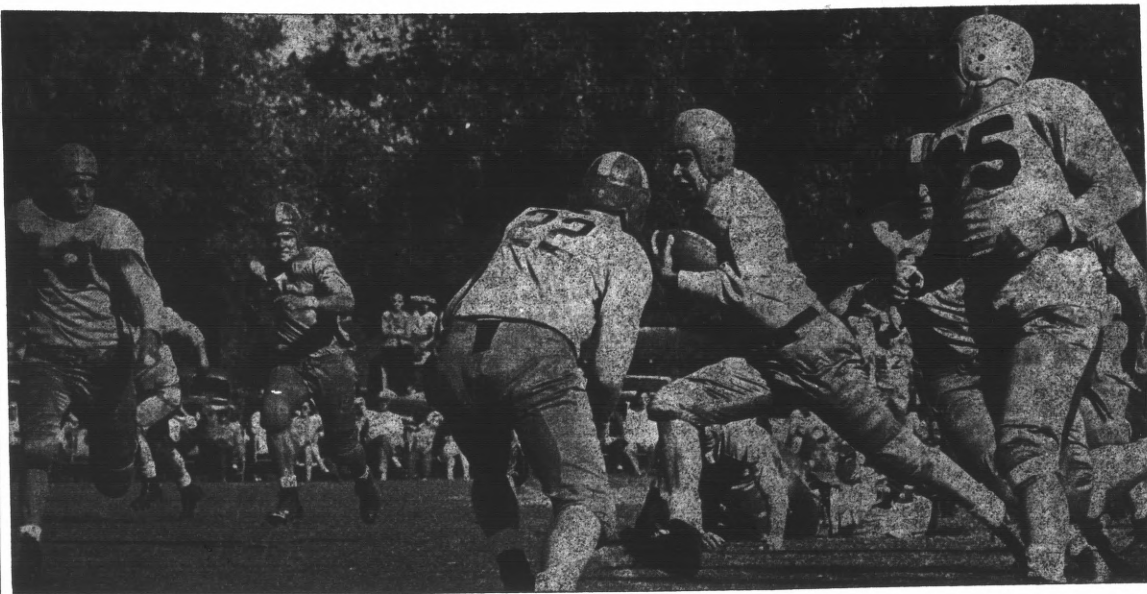

AUSPICIOUS DEBUT

Last spring State was voted into the Far Western Conference along with Southern Oregon College, Humboldt State, Chico State and Cal Aggies round out the loop.

The locals made an auspicious debut in the spring when they made a clean sweep of that season's sports, copping the baseball, track, tennis, swimming and golf crowns.

PLAN FENCING TEAM

Fencing classes were conducted during the summer by Thelwall E. Proctor. Plans are under way to organize State's fencing team this fall.

B. G. RETURNS — Barney Greenberg (with ball) dashes past Stu Martin (22), Cal Aggie half, for 25 yard gain in last year's thriller, won by State. Greenberg will be back at left half this season for the Gator eleven, and should spark the Golden Tide.

PLAY FOR PAY

Ex-State Athletes Make Grade, Sign Pro Contracts

Intramural Games Start Next Month

Opening date of the intramural football season will be announced later this month by Guido DeGhetaldi, director of intramural activities. The games are played on the "ppr" field with Phi Epsilon Mu members acting as officials.

All male students, with the exception of those who have earned their letter playing intercollegiate football, are eligible to enter. Players must sign with their gym classes first, but if the class team is filled, they may play for any recognized campus club.

Games will be played according to the usual touch tackle regulations, which specify eight players per team, and kick-off on the 20-yard line. All men of the offensive team with the exception of the center are eligible to receive a pass. A tackle shall be accomplished by touching the ball carrier with two hands simultaneously.

Scoring regulations provide for six points for a scoring pass and seven for a scoring run, with a field goal worth the usual three points. There is no conversion. All other rules are standard.

Protests must be lodged verbally at the time of the game and must be submitted in writing within 24 hours to the director of Intramural Activities.

LOCAL BOXERS RETURN FOR ACTION THIS FALL

A number of State's best boxing tradesmen, who bashed out 20 victories the past boxing season, will return to the collegiate fistic scene this fall.

Along with the experienced fisticuffs, Coach Lee Alderman expects a flow of new talent to round out the squad.

Many ex-San Francisco State athletes have been very prominent in the sports pages of late.

One of these, our own incomparable James Joseph Timothy Keating, has signed a professional baseball contract with the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League. Keating reported to the Rainiers in mid-August under terms not as yet disclosed.

Keating, one of State's greatest all-round athletes, is well remembered through his feats in baseball, track, basketball and football. He belted the horseshoe at a 420 clip last baseball season and cavorted the outfield when he wasn't chalking up his four victories and three defeats as pitcher.

"Big Jim" has also been clocked in 9.7 seconds in the 100 yard dash, and 21 seconds flat in the 220.

He was voted All-nonconference guard in 1941, and was rated by Prescott Sullivan of the San Francisco Examiner as the best rebounder on the Pacific Coast.

POLLARD INKS CONTRACT
Lanky Jim Pollard, All-American basketballer of Stanford University and mainstay of the Bittner professional basketball team last year, has inked a contract with Minneapolis in the newly formed American Basketball League.

Pollard hauled six victories as against no defeats for the Gator nine last spring and batted the sphere at a .400 clip.

Other name athletes attending State last spring have also joined various professional teams.

PRO FOOTBALLERS

Vic Ramus, erstwhile ex-grinder of U.S.F., is now playing coach of the San Francisco Clippers.

John Kuzman, All-American tackle of Fordham University and later of the San Francisco 49ers, has signed with the Chicago Rockers in the Western Division of the All-American Conference.

Moraga 'Blue Ghost' Leads Gators Again

Coach Dick Boyle, the "Blue Ghost" of St. Mary's famous backfield in 1929, will start his second year as football coach at San Francisco State College since his discharge from the Navy.

During his varsity play with the Gaels, Boyle was selected on several All-American elevens and was hailed as one of "the most dangerous backs in California."

After graduating in 1931, he married and began coaching the St. Mary's freshmen. He attended San Francisco State for two years to obtain his teaching degrees. From 1933 to 1938 he was coach and vice-principal at Orland High School. His football team won two championships in the North Coast.

MANAGERS NEEDED

A call went out this week for football and soccer managers. Men interested in either of these positions should see Dick Bunker, member of the manager staff.

League and was runner-up another season. The Orland basketball team earned three straight titles under his guidance.

Boyle received an M. S. at the University of Southern California. Besides football, Boyle coaches tennis and swimming. He is also sponsor of the Alumni Association.

The "Blue Ghost" came to State as a PE instructor in 1938, and was appointed head football coach the following year.

Came Pearl Harbor and Boyle joined the Navy early in 1942. His first assignment took him to Long Beach, where he was in charge of a cadet regiment and supervised physical training. He was transferred to Livermore and in 1943 was promoted to Lt. Commander. September, 1944, saw him transferred to St. Mary's Pre-flight.

The last transfer was to Daytona Beach, Florida, where he was welfare officer, and recreation and physical education director.

Record Soccer Signup Expected By Coach Kenney

State soccer chances for the fall appear bright, with a record signup expected by Gator Coach Jerry Kenney.

The Gators will be up against formidable opposition this season, being entered in the newly organized Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference.

NEW RULING ADVOCATED

Among the colleges represented in the loop are California, Stanford, U.S.F. and Marin J. C. There is no soccer league in the Far Western Conference.

Kenney advocates that a rule be set forth in the present conference eliminating the playing of graduate students. If this pans out, Kenney will lose such valuable All-Conference men as Al Vladimiroff, Curt Buttlers, Tom Collingwood, Manny Morena, George Droleto and Ed Murray.

Kenney stated, however, that although State would be losing a long list of greats, other schools would be hurt as bad, if not worse, than the locals.

RECORDED THREE WINS

State soccer men notched second place in the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference last year. The Gators recorded three wins against two losses.

Victories went over the University of San Francisco, the Cal Aggie Farmers, and the Menlo J. C. team. On the debit side of the ledger was a disputed loss to the University of California, and a kicking by Stanford.

This coming campaign may well prove a banner season for Coach Kenney and his Purple and Gold athletes.

Vets, Newcomers Shine in Workouts

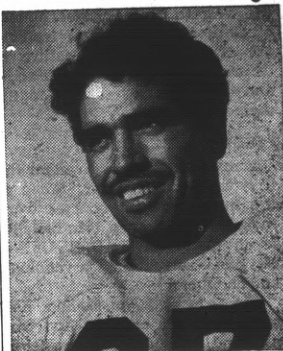

By ED LEVITT

With one of the brightest football machines in the history of San Francisco State College warming up daily at the new Lake Merced Field, it's no wonder Gator Coach Dick "Smiley" Boyle predicts trouble for opposing elevens this fall. Early season practice has been going at a successful pace.

"The impressive way the boys have been working to get into shape is really something. Regulars as well as newcomers have been battling hard for the wide-open positions on the squad. They are tackling and blocking with added fervor and hustling all over the place," Coach Boyle commented this week.

Going through rigid three hour drills daily since September 3, when first practice was held, State's porkhide exponents have been again learning the important "do's" and "don'ts" of football from such able tutors as Head Coach Boyle, line mentor Ray Kaufman, and one of the greatest football carriers ever to represent State, Chad Reade. Assisting in the coaching department have been Bill Harkness and Bob Troppman.

Early practices thus far have resulted in no serious injuries to any of the players except for the usual batch of lacerations and bruises.

Melendez... back at end.

center; Morry Flynn and "Sock" Svetcoff, halfbacks.

FULLBACK SPOT OPEN

Vying for the vacated fullback spot are Elmer Roelling and Tony Morrow. Roelling is a long distance kicker and passer who can be inserted in the lineup when distant yardage is needed. He lacks fleetness of foot, however.

Morrow is a 210-pound, bone-crushing athlete who should prove a powerhouse at the fullback position.

John Fabbri, who spirited the junior varsity squad last season, should strengthen the guard post. He's strong and his 200 pounds add needed weight to the State line. Another candidate for guard is Roger Turner, whose workouts have been inspiring.

Besides Don Ellis at quarter, there are Bill Firpo and "Kip" Kermolan. The latter is a big, rugged lad who appears to have the right amount of football I. Q. It remains to be seen what "Kip" can do during the tension of a collegiate game.

TENTATIVE LINEUP

Here's a tentative list of State's first string lineup for the coming football scramble. All positions remain open as we go to press:

PLAY AT WHITTIER

State's first encounter of its seven game schedule takes place on September 27 against Whittier at the latter's home field. The tussle will be a non-conference affair.

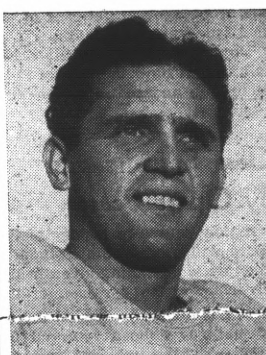

Coach Boyle leads his charges to their 1947 "home" debut at the new Lake Merced Field against the fast stepping Alameda Air Station sailors on October 4.

On the following week, State plays host to the Cal Aggie aggregation. All games that are scheduled to date take place on Saturdays.

Three games are tentatively booked for the new Lake Merced Field this year. More encounters may be added to the Gator list as the season gets into full swing.

The fall schedule, as announced by Boyle:

Sept. 27—Whittier—at Whittier... (Night)
Oct. 4—Naval Air Alameda—New Campus—2:30
Oct. 11—Cal Aggies—New Campus—2:30
Oct. 18—Cal Poly—At San Luis Obispo—(Night)
Oct. 25—Humboldt State—At Eureka—(Night)
Nov. 1—Chico State—at Chico... (Night)
Nov. 8—Southern Oregon—At New Campus—2:30
Nov. 15—University of Idaho, Southern Branch (tentative)—At Pocatello—(Night)

Svetcoff... bids for job.

The liniment bottle, it might be added, has been a familiar sight after each strenuous workout.

REGULARS TO RETURN

The nucleus of last year's squad, which ended the season by winning three encounters while dropping the same number, is back as well as some prospective new stars who have popped their heads above the 40 footballers who have made the Lake Merced Field their morning must. Out of this number no less than 32 display varsity caliber—a good percentage for any squad.

Graduation and ineligibility have severed the services of Izzie Pivnick, Pete Perry, Tom Hedden, Ed McArthur, Ed Kieper, Mel Eaton, Ed Tomasello and Phil O'Neill.

Joe Toste and John Comach, right half and fullback, respectively, have failed to make an appearance during spring practice and therefore must be counted out of State's football picture.

Returning to the State lineup this year is Amos Adkins, former All-City end, who played briefly for St. Mary's in the Sugar Bowl in '46. Another familiar face to football filberts hereabouts will be speedy Barney Greenberg. B. G. played a creditable game at left half for the Gators last season. He should be much improved this year.

Coming back to show his athletic wares for the Gators cause will be Milt Reiterman at center. Milt rates high at his position. Also returning and looking good in practices thus far are Ed Melendez, end; Bill Holland, tackle; Jack Root, guard; Armand "Quart" Quartini, SQUARE DANCING, TOO!

Women's Athletic Association Offers Co-educational Schedule For Students

By ETTA BUCHOLTZ

Women's Athletic Association is organized for all the women of the college. Groups are organized for beginners in all fields of women's athletics, as well as for experienced and advanced students.

Two types of programs are organized, intramural and inter-school. Each intramural sport will culminate in some type of inter-school program.

Students are advised to limit their programs to 10 hours of activity each week, including W. A. A.

The active program will begin the week of September 22 with 1/2 unit of credit given for each activity if the activity is also scheduled as a class.

SPORTS PROGRAM

Field hockey is slated for the first nine weeks of the semester, and will be followed by volleyball the second nine weeks.

Other sport programs will include bowling (co-educational), tennis and badminton, folk and square dancing, ice skating, co-educational, and social dancing, co-educational. Bowling and ice skating are the only sports scheduled for off campus.

AWARDS GIVEN

W.A.A. awards for participation in activities are as follows: Wings, one year's participation; Block "S", two years' participation; Block "G" pin, three years participation; and a service pin for exceptional service. This last award is usually given to a graduating senior.

Women's athletic department is headed by Mrs. Florence Stephenson, with offices located in the Women's Gym. Mrs. Stephenson has charge of field hockey, volleyball, basketball and softball; Mrs. Eleanor Wakefield, Miss Adelia Spangenberg, and Mrs. Bernice Peterson, dancing; Mrs. Blanche Drury, tennis, badminton; Miss "Bunny" Fratessa, fencing; Miss Doris Holtz, swimming and technique of teaching.

Fundamentals of skiing is offered during the fall semester with exercises and practical skiing on the sand dunes of the city to prepare students for the annual winter trip to the snow between the fall and spring semesters. Miss Holtz instructs this class that is open to both men and women.

W. A. A. Council is headed by Lene Struckmeyer; Dorothy Damon, vice president; Helen Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mariann Bruneman, recording secretary; Gloria Weeks, treasurer; Peggy Moffat, publicity manager, and Mrs. Florence Stephenson, faculty advisor.

Majors are offered in Physical Education, recreation and group leadership. Majors may be obtained in dance, hygiene, recreation and sports. Pre-physical therapy is given under the pre-professional curriculum. Credentials are issued for special secondary in physical education and general secondary.

College Rolls Swelled at Summer Sites

More than 2800 students were enrolled in summer and post sessions under the sponsorship of the college, creating a new record for summer enrollment at State. At this campus, 1732 were registered for summer session and 753 were registered for post session. At the off-campus summer sessions, there were 235 registered at Modesto and 162 at Santa Rosa.

Hugh C. Baker was director of the sessions at the college, which have been declared to be the most successful summer programs in the history of the college. Theme was "Peoples of the Pacific Area," and courses were given in geology of the Western United States, history of California, California Indians, art of the Orient, literature of China, geography of the Pacific and other courses related to the theme.

FIRST TIME COURSES

Many courses were given for the first time this summer. Some of the more crowded courses were those in delinquency, criminology, recent history of the U. S., United Nations, recreation, psychology and commerce.

The education workshop had more than 400 enrolled and emphasized methods and procedures in teaching in elementary schools. Many teachers holding emergency credentials as well as elementary teachers in service attended. Director of the workshop was Francis Drag, supervisor of curricula for San Diego County Schools.

OFF CAMPUS SESSION

The off campus summer session held at Modesto Junior College was directed by William Cowan, director of extension at State, and centered about a core course in elementary curricula.

The Santa Rosa off campus session was directed by Mrs. Josephine Rea, elementary supervisor of Contra Costa County. It also emphasized materials and methods used in elementary schools and elementary curricula.

The off campus sessions were given to "bring the college to those who can not come to the college" in the words of President Leonard.

At Santa Rosa the session was jointly sponsored by the superintendent of schools of Sonoma County and the city school departments of Petaluma and Santa Rosa. In Modesto the undertaking was a co-operative venture between the Modesto city school department, Stanislaus County schools and the college.

VENTURES SUCCESSFUL

Cowan said that both ventures were highly successful and that most of the teachers attending indicated their desire for a repetition of the program next year.

The social program at the college was crowded with an airplane ride being taken by members of the education workshop to Modesto, where they toured a frozen foods plant. Picnics, fashion shows, a boat ride and tea concerts were part of the extensive program under the direction of Dean Mary Ward and Mrs. Alma Truesdale of the education workshop.

Highlights of the social program, however, were the concerts given by the Summer Session Band under the direction of Lee Chrisman, and the presentation of three one-act plays.

Simonson Reported Ill

DeCalvus W. Simonson, instructor in language arts, is seriously ill in Wadsworth Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles, it was reported last week by President J. Paul Leonard.

More on Campus Land Issue

been buttonholéd by Don Cleary, City Hall lobbyist. At the first vote of the committee the bill lacked one vote of being reported to the senate floor. In an unprecedented move, generally attributed to the San Francisco legislators and Leonard, the committee decided to reconsider.

Meanwhile, one opponent had come over to the side of State College, but just before the final vote another adherent of the bill became ill and was unable to be present. The land bill died in the senate committee and along with it the building appropriation bill.

The issue became quite hot in San Francisco with the Chronicle and the News taking the college side. Leonard, however, is not discouraged. In a statement this summer he said that he hopes the next legislative session will reconsider, and that S. F. State already has close to $4,000,000 in the building fund.

Whether the Class of '51 graduates from the Lake Merced campus or not, we would not like to make any optimistic statement. Many freshmen before have had those high hopes, but they contented themselves with memories of the "lone palm," the "rally bowl" and the view from the gym balcony as they left college.

EXPANSION

Radio Writing, Dramatics Offered

Expansion of the radio department, to include all phases of commercial radio, begins this fall, Raymond N. Doyle, department head, announced this week.

A speech or drama major with emphasis on radio has been set up and the fundamental courses will be offered this semester. One course, Speech 17, Fundamentals of Radio Technique, will be a survey of the complete radio field and will be a prerequisite to most of the radio courses.

ADDITIONAL COURSES

Other courses offered this term are radio speech, radio workshop, radio dramatics, radio acting, radio production, radio management, radio announcing, radio administration, music for radio, and radio continuity writing, with a graduate course in individual problems of radio, also will be given.

Three new courses will be added in the spring semester of 1948 with the possibility of others. They include radio law, radio news writing and television technique.

Doyle said that with the addition of these courses State probably will offer more in the combined fields of radio and television than any other school or college in the Bay Area.

NEW INSTRUCTORS

Three instructors, all having experience in commercial radio, have been added to the staff, he said.

Doyle stated that there are two objectives of his department: to train teachers the importance and use of radio as an educational medium and to train people for commercial radio, with emphasis on the broad general patterns of the small market radio station.

Doyle, who came to State last fall, taught fundamentals of radio technique and platform speaking at summer session.

Class Spearheaded By Opera Season

A new course in history of the opera will prepare State students to enjoy works being given in the silver anniversary season of the Civic Opera. Special blocks of seats have been reserved for members of the class, and those remaining unsold at the end of first class period will be placed on sale to faculty and student body.

The opera study will be offered in a revised two-unit course cataloged as Music 53, Appreciation of Music, given Tuesday and Thursday at 2 p.m.

Student Government

The board of control, under treasurer John Shepherd, is followed by the position of administrator of students affairs Charles K. Roumasset, who also works in conjunction with the board of control and store council.

Hal Fox, secretary, records minutes of each meeting of the board of directors and serves as chairman of the store council.

Meanwhile, O'Leary is appointing new committees which will assist the councils and boards now functioning.

The four main financial enterprises of the Associated Students are the student cafeteria, managed by Mrs. Erna Lehan; the bookstore, managed by Miss Sally Wilde; the print shop, in which the Golden Gater is published, as well as all posters, pamphlets and cards for various student organizations, under the foremanship of Jack Spann; and the student lounge. Director of the student lounge is as yet unnamed.

FRANK PURCELL

Pursel Leaves In VA Revamp

Frank Purcell, veterans' training officer at State for the last year and a half, was relieved last summer as a result of the reorganization of the Veterans Administration caused by the cut in appropriation to that agency. He has been replaced by Jack L. Mengel.

German, Other Courses Added

German 2, scientific German, will be given at 9 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday for science majors and pre-professional students only. Further information may be obtained at the counseling office or at Annex A-1. Other changes include:

Ed. 152 (3) Visual Education 2-3:25, TTh, Dorris, 209; B. S. 112 (3), MWF, Reid, 209; P. E. ABCD (1/2) Folk and Soc. Dancing, 7:30-9, T. Gym, added.

P. S. 113, 10, MWF, canceled.

McCandless Elected to Fellowship in APA

Boyd McCandless, assistant professor of psychology at the college for the last year, was elected to fellowship in the American Psychological Association at the national convention of the association last week in Detroit.

McCandless was one of the leaders at the national conference of the National Association for Nursery Education, held at the college last August.

VETERANS

Earnings Report No Longer Due

Veterans studying full time in colleges and universities will no longer make periodic reports of earnings, the Veterans Administration announced last week. However, veterans entering college this fall under the GI Bill have to estimate their productive labor for the full period of their enrollment. Subsidence allowances will be based on these estimates.

Also announced recently by VA was the expected delay until the first part of November of subsidence checks for veterans attending school. The agency explained that a veteran is not entitled to receive the allowance until after 30 days of training and that checks are mailed out normally on the first of the month.

Disabled veterans enrolled in educational courses under Public Law 16 will receive an increase in subsidence allowance if their disability is rated at 30 per cent or higher, according to the VA.

Ex-Gater Editor Transfers, Vacates Two Top Positions

Doris Thulin, editor of the Golden Gater last semester, transfers to the University of California this term. Newly elected to the Board of Directors and director of the Board of Publications, she resigned these positions.

She plans to receive her degree at the university and do graduate work at the University of Michigan.

This summer Miss Thulin and Etta Bucholtz, co-sports editor of the Gater this semester, went to the University of Colorado at Boulder, Colo., to attend a writers' conference.

Replacements for her vacated offices have not yet been named.
